+ VISION

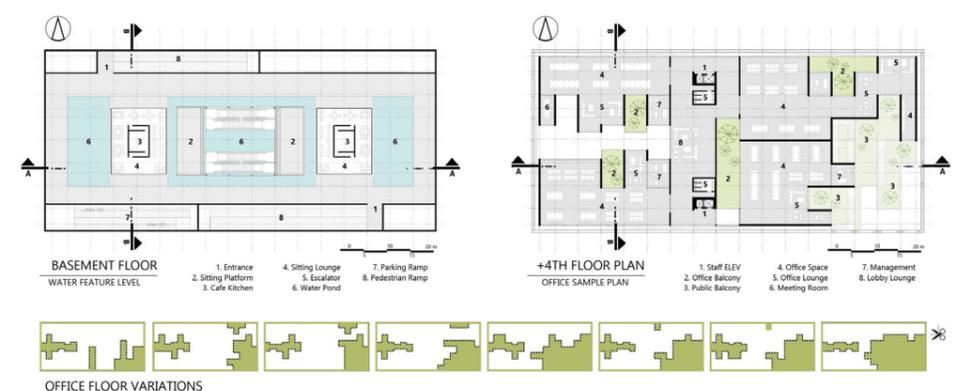

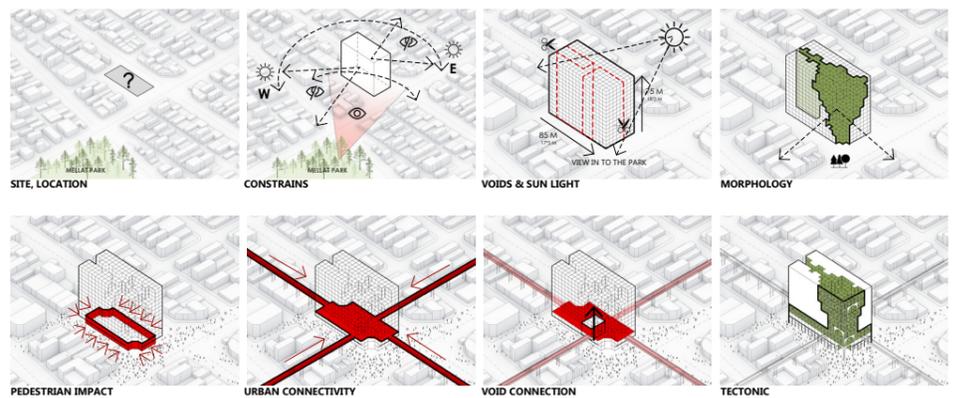

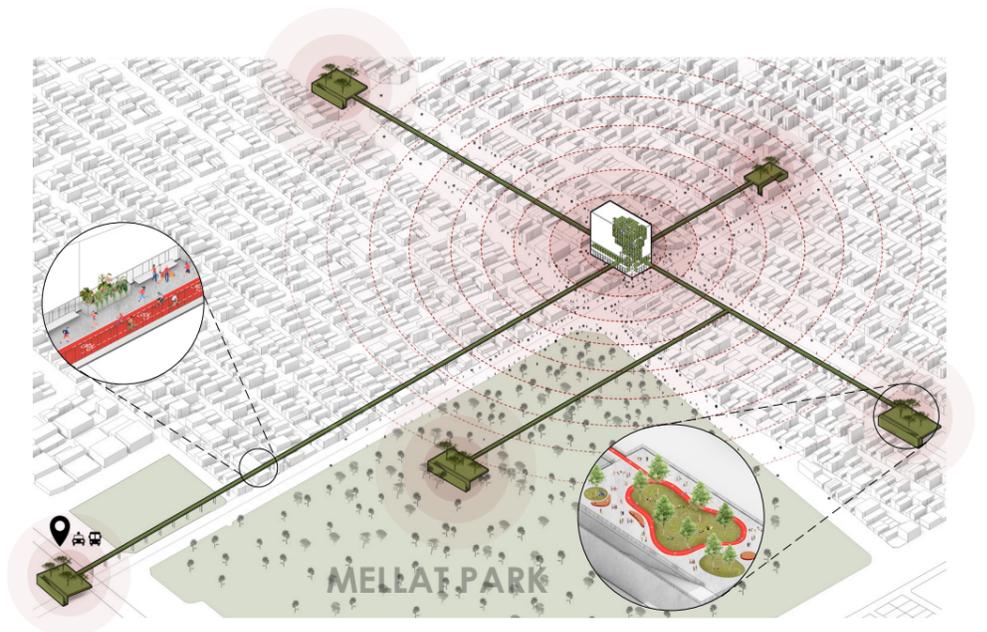

The everyday life of each and every one of us today largely involves social functions and activities in which we participate on a daily basis.

To improve the individual's social life and collaboration with others, one of the most important city design structures deals with producing accessible and appropriate public spaces. In the absence of such spaces in Iran, we decided to put public and social spaces to a challenge and attempt to conceptualize an ideal possible option. The project's principal idea is to present a new perspective on public urban spaces of which many Iranian cities such as Mashhad are in desperate need.
