Uniqueness and Experience of Pizá

Agustín Pizá's design merges the foundations of the British traditional school with the innovations of contemporary North American design.

Learning and collaborating with the best in the world, has positioned Pizá as the [[Fifth Element]] that fuses and channels the artistic and aesthetic expression of Tom Fazio, the game strategy and vertical expression of Robert von Hagge, ecological disciplined design by Gary Player and the cunning of resort design and marketing by Jack Nicklaus. These great legends who together have designed more than 1000 courses in 50 countries, have been present in Pizá's 22-year career, which complements his experience with a master's degree in Europe in golf course architecture from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland (the cradle of Golf). His international experience and studies, his passion for golf, architecture and nature, make Pizá one of the most original, trustworthy and responsible firms in the golf industry.

Do you know that 90% of your investment
on a golf course remains underground?

The golf course is a living being and requires good planning from conception to maturity which symbolizes perpetual maintenance.

Planning, design and construction supervision of Pizá ensures that the "organs" of the golf course that are not exposed, are the appropriate and work to perfection.

Our mission is to protect our client's interest by reducing risks, cost overruns and setbacks that are key aspects for a functional and successful project. We monitor the proper execution of the project with the quality and economic and ecological sustainability agreed upon, thus taking objective decisions with, and for our clients.

Pizá's competitive advantage

Our construction management, master planning experience and value engineering has made a positive impact on all our projects. By getting involved from the beginning, we can create better lots with premium views, providing a better ROI to our clients investment. Making accurate and time/money saving decisions is key to a successful project.

Our approach and experience have transformed the industry, quality shouldn't mean expensive. We are a firm that thrives on delivering quality projects at rational costs. Our design methods increase efficiency and effectiveness in construction and maintenance costs since we know the rules but most importantly, we know the exceptions.

With our Target-Value Design we can pre-define system parameters, objectives and budgets that we must meet as a team. This protects our client from over-construction / design from any designer involved.

“Wellness Golf is the first course of its kind to encourage a relaxed approach to ‘the game of life’ and welcomes golf enthusiasts and beginners alike. Wellness Golf will introduce a new philosophy to the sport encouraging guests to expand beyond the mental and physical aspects and connect to the game on a spiritual, emotional and environmental level. Guests will be encouraged to play barefoot and connect with nature while enjoying a laid-back style of play, begin and end a round at any point on the course, and create and conquer unique challenges at leisure. The Wellness Golf concept was created by award-winning architect Agustín Pizá in 2018”.
