Custom house numbers that capture the essence and qualities of fine art and jewelry

When it comes to curb appeal, first impressions matter. Orthografica, is rewriting the script on modern house numbers with fine design standards – think fine art, fine jewelry or fine knits, but for your house. Founded in 2003 by Dian Morin, Orthografica is a Montreal-based and women-owned creative design agency that has carved out a niche market for exclusive made-to-order luxury home address products.

Where others might only see home signage as simply utilitarian, Orthografica sees an opportunity for originality and intentional design. Our mission is to reshape the way we approach home exteriors by offering tailor-made, 100% custom options to like-minded homeowners.

A fully personalized service

Orthografica's services begin with an assessment of the frontage from pictures and descriptions by one of the team's designers. The human scale communication that follows ensures a personalized proposal and quote, offering an alternative to conventional and mass-produced products. Our designers start every design from scratch: from sizing and spacing to material and finish, every aspect is curated to perfection. Sustainable, high-quality materials are at the center of their creations, each backed by a lifetime warranty.

Orthografica is more than a design agency; it's a curator of first impressions, transforming houses into distinctive homes, one custom number at a time.
